Capitol Hill Workshop

“Excellent speakers/experts, timely information, organization, breadth of topics covered.”

—Senior Materials Engineer,
U.S. Government

“I initially dreaded spending four days away from the office in a seminar but now consider the four days the best I have experienced all year.
I learned so much—general and specific.
Got great ideas and ways of working with the Hill.”

—Assistant Director of Congressional Relations, National University

A custom Capitol Hill Workshop is tailored to give your personnel a solid overview of Congress and how Capitol Hill works. It is designed for executives, federal employees GS-13 and above, military officers, supervisory personnel, SES, and Leadership Development participants. The Capitol Hill Workshop can be structured as a three, four, or five day program.

Topics can include:

- Congressional operations
- The dynamics of the legislative process
- Politics and leadership in the current Congress
- How policy is made in Washington
- Effective communication with Congress
- Congressional budgeting today
- How the media covers the big beats in Washington
- Executive/congressional relations
- How members of Congress advance their legislative, public policy, and political agendas
- The role of committees
- Current campaign and election trends
- The role of OMB in the legislative process
- Congressional liaison offices
- The roles and functions of personal and committee staff
- Attendance at committee hearings

For more information about our Capitol Hill Workshop please contact our Vice President, Training at khormuth@thecapitol.net or at 703-739-3790, ext. 115.

Plus, outstanding course materials—materials can include the then-available Congressional Directory, the Training Edition of Persuading Congress, and the Training Edition of the award-winning Congressional Deskbook
