Membership of the 117th Congress: A Profile

This report presents a profile of the membership of the 117th Congress (2021-2022) as of August 31, 2022, or at the beginning of the 117th Congress (January 3, 2021), where noted. Statistical information is included on selected characteristics of Members, including data on party affiliation, average age, occupation, education, length of congressional service, religious affiliation, gender, ethnicity, foreign birth, and military service.

In the House of Representatives, there are 223 Democrats (including 4 Delegates), 213 Republicans (including 1 Delegate and the Resident Commissioner of Puerto Rico), and 5 vacant seats. The Senate has 50 Republicans, 48 Democrats, and 2 Independents, who both caucus with the Democrats. Additionally,

- The average age of Members of the House at the beginning of the 117th Congress was 58.4 years; of Senators, 64.3 years.
- The overwhelming majority, 96%, of Members of Congress have a college education.
- The dominant professions of Members are public service/politics, business, and law.
- Most Members identify as Christians, and the collective majority of these affiliate with a Protestant denomination. Roman Catholics account for the largest single religious denomination, and numerous other affiliations are represented, including Jewish, Mormon, Buddhist, Muslim, Hindu, Greek Orthodox, Pentecostal Christian, Unitarian Universalist, and Adventist.
- The average length of service for Representatives at the beginning of the 117th Congress was 8.9 years (4.5 House terms); for Senators, 11.0 years (1.8 Senate terms).
- One hundred fifty women serve in the 117th Congress: 126 in the House, including 3 Delegates and the Resident Commissioner, and 24 in the Senate.
- There are 58 African American Members of the House and 3 in the Senate. This House number includes two Delegates.
- There are 52 Hispanic or Latino Members serving: 46 in the House, including 2 Delegates and the Resident Commissioner, and 7 in the Senate.
- There are 21 Members (16 Representatives, 3 Delegates, and 2 Senators) who are Asian Americans or Pacific Islander Americans.
- A record five Native Americans (American Indians or Native Hawaiians) serve in the House.

The portions of this report covering political party affiliation, gender, ethnicity, and vacant seats may be updated as events warrant. The remainder of the report will not be updated.

Overview and Total Members in History

Congress is composed of 541 individuals¹ from the 50 states, the District of Columbia, Guam, the U.S. Virgin Islands, American Samoa, the Northern Mariana Islands, and Puerto Rico. Since 1789, 12,426 individuals² have served as either Representatives (11,112 individuals) or Senators (1,994 individuals).³ Of these individuals, 680 have served in both chambers. An additional 178 individuals have served in the House in the roles of territorial Delegates or Resident Commissioners.⁴

The following is a profile of the 117th Congress (2021-2022).⁵

Party Breakdown

In the 117th Congress, the current party alignments as of August 31, 2022,⁶ are as follows:

- House of Representatives: 223 Democrats (including 4 Delegates), 212 Republicans (including 1 Delegate and the Resident Commissioner of Puerto Rico), and 5 vacant seats.
- Senate: 50 Republicans, 48 Democrats, and 2 Independents, who both caucus with the Democrats.

¹ This 541 number is the maximum number of individuals who may currently serve in the House and Senate and assumes that no seat is temporarily vacant. As of August 31, 2022, there are five House vacancies. The 541 number includes the 535 Members from the 50 states (100 Senators, 435 Representatives), 5 Members who are Delegates (from the District of Columbia, Guam, American Samoa, the U.S. Virgin Islands, and the Northern Mariana Islands), and 1 Member who is Resident Commissioner from Puerto Rico. References in this report to “Representative(s)” include the 435 Members of the House from the 50 states and exclude the Members who are Delegates and the Resident Commissioner. Percentages in this report assume a full Congress of 541 Members.

For more information on the status of the Delegates and Resident Commissioner, refer to CRS Report R40170, Parliamentary Rights of the Delegates and Resident Commissioner from Puerto Rico, by Christopher M. Davis.

Notes: Representatives’ age data do not include the Delegates and the Resident Commissioner. Newly elected Members’ data do not include those returning to the House or Senate for a second time.

The U.S. Constitution requires Representatives to be at least 25 years old when they take office.⁸ The youngest Representative in the 117th Congress, and the youngest House Member since 1965,⁹ is Madison Cawthorn (R-NC), born August 1, 1995, who was 25 at the beginning of the 117th Congress. The current oldest Representative is Hal Rogers (R-KY), born December 31, 1937, who was 83.¹⁰

Senators must be at least 30 years old when they take office. The youngest Senator in the 117th Congress is Jon Ossoff (D-GA), born February 16, 1987, who was 33 at the beginning of the Congress. The oldest Senator in the 117th Congress is Dianne Feinstein (D-CA), born June 22, 1933, who was 87.

Occupations

According to data on occupations provided by CQ.com, in the 117th Congress, public service/politics is the most commonly declared profession of Senators, followed by law, then business; for Representatives, public service/politics is first, closely followed by business, then law.¹¹

⁷ For more information about age distributions in the 117th Congress, see Pew Research Center, “Boomers, Silents still have most seats in Congress, though number of Millennials, Gen Xers is up slightly,” February 12, 2021, at <https://www.pewresearch.org/fact-tank/2021/02/12/boomers-silents-still-have-most-seats-in-congress-though-number-of-millennials-gen-xers-is-up-slightly/>.

⁸ Article I, Section 2, clause 2, of the U.S. Constitution.

⁹ Rep. Jed Johnson Jr. (D-OK) was sworn into the 89th Congress (1965-66) 7 days after he turned 25.

¹⁰ The former oldest Representative in the 117th Congress, Rep. Don Young (R-AK), passed away on March 18, 2022, at the age of 87.

¹¹ These data do not include the Delegates and Resident Commissioner.

Education

As has been true in recent Congresses, the vast majority of Members (93.8% of House Members and 100% of Senators) at the beginning of the 117th Congress have earned at least a bachelor's degree. Sixty-seven percent of House Members and 76% of Senators hold educational degrees beyond a bachelor's.¹⁸ The CQ Member Profiles at the beginning of the 117th Congress indicate the following:

- 22 Members of the House have no educational degree beyond a high school diploma or GED;
- 5 Members of the House have associate's degrees as their highest degrees;
- 108 Members of the House and 18 Senators earned a master's degree as their highest attained degrees;
- 144 Members of the House (32.7% of the House) and 50 Senators (50% of the Senate) hold law degrees;
- 22 Representatives and 4 Senators have doctoral (Ph.D., D.Phil., Ed.D., or D. Min) degrees;¹⁹ and
- 20 Members of the House and 5 Senators have medical degrees.²⁰

By comparison, 35 years ago in the 100th Congress (1987-1988), 85.5% of House Members and 89% of Senators held bachelor's degrees. Forty-five years ago, in the 95th Congress (1977-1978), 82.7% of House Members and 87% of Senators held bachelor's degrees. Sixty years ago, in the 87th Congress (1961-1962), 76% of House Members and 76% of Senators held bachelor's degrees.²¹

Three Representatives and one Senator are graduates of the U.S. Military Academy, five Representatives and one Senator graduated from the U.S. Naval Academy, one Representative graduated from the U.S. Air Force Academy, and one Senator graduated from the U.S. Merchant

Notes: Representatives are elected for two-year terms. Senators are elected for six-year terms. Note that 47 Senators in the 117th Congress have previously served in the House. Their House service is not included in this average, nor is the House service of Senators included in previous Congresses.

At the beginning of the 117th Congress, 57 of the House Members (12.9% of the total House membership) had first been elected to the House in November 2020, and 9 of the Senators (9% of the total Senate membership) had first been elected to the Senate in November 2020.²³ At the beginning of the 116th Congress, 20.4% of the House and 9% of the Senate were newly elected “freshmen.”

At the beginning of the 117th Congress, 131 House Members (29.7% of House Members) had no more than 2 years of House experience, and 18 Senators (18% of Senators) had no more than 2 years of Senate experience.

For more historical information on the tenure of Members of Congress, see CRS Report R41545, Congressional Careers: Service Tenure and Patterns of Member Service, 1789-2021, by Sarah J. Eckman and Amber Hope Wilhelm.

Religion

Ninety-seven percent of the Members of the 117th Congress report an affiliation with a specific religion.²⁴

²² Rhodes and Marshall scholarships fund study at British universities; Fulbright scholarships fund international exchange programs; Truman scholarships fund graduate study toward public service. One of the House Rhodes Scholars counted here resigned in May 2022.

²³ In addition, one Senator was appointed to and sworn into the Senate in January 2021, after the 117th Congress began.

²⁴ Nineteen Members of the 117th Congress do not specify a religious affiliation, or report themselves as unaffiliated.

Statistics gathered by the Pew Research Center on Religion and Public Life, which studies the religious affiliation of Representatives and Senators, and CQ at the beginning of the 117th Congress showed the following:

- 55.4% of Members (236 in the House, 58 in the Senate) are Protestant, with Baptist as the most represented denomination, followed by Methodist;
- 29.8% of Members (134 in the House, 24 in the Senate) are Catholic;
- 6.3% of Members (25 in the House, 9 in the Senate) are Jewish;
- 1.7% of Members (6 in the House, 3 in the Senate) are Mormon (Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints);
- 2 Members (1 in the House, 1 in the Senate) are Buddhist, 3 Representatives are Muslim, and 2 Representatives are Hindu; and
- other religious affiliations represented include Greek Orthodox, Pentecostal Christian, Unitarian Universalist, and Adventist.²⁵

Gender and Ethnicity

Women Members

One hundred fifty women Members (27.7% of the total membership) serve in the 117th Congress, 19 more than at the beginning of the 116th Congress.²⁶ One hundred twenty-six women, including 3 Delegates as well as the Resident Commissioner, serve in the House and 24 in the Senate. Of the 126 women in the House, 92 are Democrats, including 2 of the Delegates, and 34 are Republicans, including 1 Delegate as well as the Resident Commissioner. Of the 24 women in the Senate, 16 are Democrats and 8 are Republicans.²⁷

By comparison, approximately 35 years ago in the 100th Congress (1987-1988), 24 women served in the House, and 2 in the Senate. Approximately 45 years ago, in the 95th Congress (1977-1978), there were 18 women in the House, and 3 in the Senate.

African American Members

There are a record 61 African American Members (11.3% of the total membership) in the 117th Congress, 4 more than at the beginning of the 116th Congress.²⁸ Fifty-eight serve in the House, Pew Research Center on Religion and Public Life Project, “Faith on the Hill: The Religious Composition of the 117th Congress,” January 4, 2021, at <https://www.pewforum.org/2021/01/04/faith-on-the-hill-2021/>.

Brudnick, and the Office of the House Historian’s Women in Congress website at <http://history.house.gov/Exhibition-and-Publications/WIC/Women-in-Congress/>.

²⁸ The 117th Congress began with 62 African American Members. In January 2021, after the 117th Congress began, one including two Delegates, and three serve in the Senate. This number includes two Representatives who are of African American and Asian ancestry, and one Representative who is of African American and Hispanic ancestry. In this report, each of these three Members is counted as belonging to two ethnic groups. Fifty-six of the African American House Members, including two Delegates, are Democrats, and two are Republicans. Two of the Senators are Democrats and one is Republican. Twenty-eight African American women, including two Delegates, serve in Congress, all in the House.²⁹

By comparison, approximately 35 years ago in the 99th Congress (1985-1986), 21 African American Members served in the House, and none in the Senate. Sixty years ago, in the 87th Congress (1961-1962), there were 4 African American Members of Congress, all serving in the House.

Hispanic/Latino American Members

There are 52 Hispanic or Latino Members in the 117th Congress, 9.6% of the total membership and a record number.³⁰ Forty-five serve in the House, including two Delegates and the Resident Commissioner, and seven in the Senate. These numbers include two House Members who are also of Asian descent, and one House Member also of African ancestry; these Members are counted in both ethnic categories in this report. Of the Members of the House, 32 are Democrats (including 2 Delegates) and 13 are Republicans (including the Resident Commissioner). Sixteen are women, including the Resident Commissioner. Of the seven Hispanic Senators (three Republicans, four Democrats), one is a woman. By comparison, approximately 35 years ago in the 99th Congress (1985-1986), 14 Hispanic or Latino Members served in Congress. All 14 were male Members of the House.

Asian/Pacific Islander American Members

Twenty-one Members of the 117th Congress (3.9% of the total membership) are of Asian, South Asian, or Pacific Islander ancestry.³¹ Nineteen of them (16 Democrats, 3 Republicans) serve in

One House Member of Portuguese ancestry resigned in January 2022, another Hispanic House Member resigned in March 2022, and another resigned in May 2022; one Hispanic House Member was sworn in in June 2022. For more information, see the Office of the House Historian's Hispanic Americans in Congress website at <http://history.house.gov/Exhibitions-and-Publications/HAIC/Hispanic-Americans-in-Congress/>. Due to differences in data collection or characterization, demographic data in other studies on Members of Congress may differ from those presented in this report.

³¹ The 117th Congress began with a record 22 Asian/Pacific Islander American Members; one Senator resigned in January 2021 to become Vice President of the United States.

For more information, see the Office of the House Historian's Asian and Pacific Islander Americans in Congress the House, and 2 (both Democrats) serve in the Senate. These numbers include two House Members who are also of African American ancestry, two House Members also of Hispanic ancestry, and one Member who is also Native Hawaiian (Native American); these Members are counted in both ethnic categories in this report. Of those serving in the House, three are Delegates. Eleven of the Asian, Pacific Islander, or South Asian American Members are female: nine in the House, and two in the Senate. By comparison, approximately 35 years ago in the 99th Congress (1985-1986), there were 5 Asian/Pacific Islander Americans in the House, and 2 in the Senate.

American Indian Members

There are five American Indian (Native American) or Native Hawaiian Members of the 117th Congress: three Republicans and two Democrats, all in the House.³² This is .9% of the total congressional membership, and a record number.

Foreign Birth

Twenty-nine Representatives and five Senators (6.3% of the 117th Congress) were born outside the United States. Their places of birth include Canada, Cuba, Germany, Guatemala, Japan, Peru, and India. Some of these Members were born to American citizens working or serving abroad.³³ The U.S. Constitution requires that Representatives be citizens for seven years and Senators be citizens for nine years before they take office.³⁴

Military Service

At the beginning of the 117th Congress, there were 91 individuals (16.8% of the total membership) who had served or were serving in the military, 5 fewer than at the beginning of the 116th Congress (96 Members). According to lists compiled by CQ, the House as of January 2021 had 75 veterans (including 4 female Members, as well as 1 Delegate); the Senate had 16 veterans, including 2 women.³⁵ These Members' service included tours of duty in the Vietnam War and the Persian Gulf War, and combat or peacekeeping missions in Afghanistan, Iraq, and Kosovo. ³² The 117th Congress began with six Native American or Native Hawaiian Members. One Native American House Member resigned in March 2021 to become Secretary of the Interior. One Native Hawaiian Member is also of Asian ancestry and is counted in both ethnic categories in this report.

This number includes only Members who are enrolled members of federally recognized tribes. For more information, see CRS congressional distribution memorandum, Members of Congress of American Indian Descent, by Jennifer Manning, available to congressional offices upon request.

³⁵ CQ, "117th Congress: House Military Veterans," at <https://plus.cq.com/members/factfile/house-veterans>; and "117th Congress: Senate Military Veterans," at <https://plus.cq.com/members/factfile/senate-veterans>. Both lists are frequently updated to reflect changes since the 117th Congress convened.

House Members and one Senator are still serving in the reserves, and seven House Members are still serving in the National Guard. Two of the six female veterans are combat veterans.

The number of veterans in the 117th Congress reflects the trend of steady decline in recent decades in the number of Members who have served in the military. For example, 64% of the Members of the 97th Congress (1981-1982) were veterans, and in the 92nd Congress (1971-1972), 73% of the Members were veterans. According to the Military Times, the 117th Congress veterans numbers are at the “lowest since the start of World War II.”³⁶
